THE THIRD TOWERS OF LIGHT BOOK RELEASES THIS WINTER

Bloomington, IL — December 21, 2020

Lost and alone, three siblings must call upon their faith to stand against the forces of evil controlling their land.

The third book in Allen Brokken's Towers of Light series, Fear No Evil, releases this winter. Return to a land of knights and fantastical creatures where darkness continues to spread, infesting everything it touches. Journey with a trio of siblings who seek to reignite the Towers of Light to save their land. Stand beside them as each must face the Dark One's evil forces alone. And discover if they have the faith to prevail, or if they too will fall prey to the darkness.

Fear No Evil shares a powerful Christian message for children eight and up about drawing courage from their faith in the Lord and standing firm against evil.

"This is the best one yet!" – Kalyn Cummins, Reader's Favorite Award Winner

Fear No Evil releases on December 5, 2020, and is now available for pre-order.

About Fear No Evil

Lauren, Aiden, and Ethan are determined to reignite the Tower of Light in Blooming Glen and save Zoura. But an attack by Dark Forces separates them and drives them into the wilderness. The three siblings must navigate their darkened land while fending off creatures tainted by evil—fighting for Zoura and their own survival. Will the Darkness overtake them? Or will they prove their faith is stronger and they fear no evil?

About Allen Brokken

Allen Brokken is a teacher at heart, a husband and father most of all. He's a joyful writer by the abundant grace of God. He began writing the Towers of Light series for his own children to help him illustrate the deep truths of the Bible in an engaging and age appropriate way. He's dedicated 15 years of his life to volunteer roles in children's ministry and youth development. Now that his own children are off to college he's sharing his life experiences on social media @towersoflight, @twodadsandajoke, and through his blog <https://www.towersoflight.net>
